

96FM FUGITIVE FOUND IN GLANMIRE AFTER 9 YEARS

A man has been found to have been living in the wilderness of Glanmire for the past 9 years. Darragh Keogh, originally came to the area as part of a radio competition run by Cork's 96 FM.

Confused Keogh, with rudimentary shack

The competition was a sort of interactive game of manhunt in which listeners would listen for clues as to the whereabouts of the fugitive, before approaching them and asking "are you the 96FM fugitive"?

However he was never successfully found by any members of the public. His intense dedication to the role of the 96FM Fugitive caused Darragh to completely lose his grip on reality.

A search party had begun soon after his disappearance, but was quickly called off when it could not be confirmed which suburb of the city he had gone to seek refuge in.

His home since 2011 has been the wooded area at the back of John O'Callaghan Park. He was found this week in a gaunt yet relatively healthy condition. He has been taken into care at Cork's University Hospital for tests.

It has not been confirmed if any of the Gardai or Hospital staff that have been in contact with Mr. Keogh have attempted to claim the €30,000 prize. It is thought that if a person were to ask him if he is the 96FM fugitive in his current fragile mental state, he may flee into the wild once again.

The radio station has so far refused to comment on the story.

Struck Off! with Dr.Niamh Nic Gearailt

(DANDRUFF)

Dandruff is a common condition that causes the skin on the scalp to flake. It isn't contagious or serious. But it can be embarrassing and difficult to treat. The bald can also suffer from dandruff, it is rare, but can occur and is a bewildering sight, akin to a well floured counter-top.

Mild dandruff can be treated with a gentle daily shampoo. If that doesn't work, try a more vigorous head massaging technique. Ideally, you will hear the scrape of your fingernails on your skull. If that doesn't work, try a medicated shampoo, but to be honest this is extreme territory. The medicated stuff doesn't mess around. There is a real risk of chemical burning of the scalp and fingers.

Dandruff is generally considered to be a mild form of seborrheic dermatitis, which itself is medical jargon for dandruff. In babies, seborrheic dermatitis is called cradle cap.

Dandruff signs and symptoms may include:

- Skin flakes on your scalp, hair, eyebrows, shoulders, beard or mustache (if applicable), arm-pit, chest and belly hair, and finally the dreaded pubis.
- Itchy scalp
- Constantly scanning rooms for items that could double as a scratching device
- Scaly, crusty scalp in infants with cradle cap
- The signs and symptoms may be more severe if you're stressed, and they tend to flare in cold, dry seasons. In parts of the Arctic, dandruff can be seen simply floating from the heads of those who suffer from it, like dandelion spores.

So, the real question, when to see a doctor?

Most cases of dandruff don't require a doctor's care, in fact, even if you think it does, you are not a qualified professional, you are probably misdiagnosing yourself, and ultimately wasting your time and more importantly, mine.

If you absolutely must, see your primary care doctor or a doctor who specializes in skin conditions (dermatologist, a.k.a quack).

NEW YEAR'S RESOLUTIONS

The new year, for many people, is often a time to reflect on the year ahead and what might be. Local man Gary McBride-Bride (32 and a half) is one such people. Every January of a new year, Mr McBride-Bride writes out a list of goals, wishes and shopping for the months ahead (12) as a way to focus his mind and accompanying body on the various things he believes can make him a better, even likeable, person. And 2021 is no exception.

Except there is an exception, as Mr McBride-Bride told GNA when he called the GNA Exciting News & Emergencies Hotline this morning insisting on this piece being written, and that is that this year's list of New Year's Resolutions, as he calls them, features just one thing; "Get the ride".

"It's been a barren fucking year, lads, to be honest" Mr McBride-Bride began our phonecall by saying. Then, after introducing himself, he went on to explain how the year of someone's lord 2020 was a "fucking distaster" and a "wasteland of despair and crumpled tissues" as far as his love life was concerned. We sympathised, but we did not fully empathise as we at GNA had lots of sex in 2020. Yes.

Mr. McBride-Bride went on to detail his theories about how he believes, and we at GNA have not yet been able to verify, writing your goals and aspirations down in some way makes you more likely to achieve them. He then droned some of his notions around 5G, but the call was abruptly ended by us hanging up.

The founder member of Glanmire Community Responder Group says that he is “shocked” and “fucking gutted” that one of the group’s defibrillators was damaged last weekend.

The heated cabinet holding the potentially life saving piece of equipment, which is located on Barnavara Hill, was broken sometime between Friday evening and Monday last. In addition to the cabinet being damaged, there are urine stains also on the defibrillator and the surrounding area. Speaking to the Glanmire News Area this week, Iain Geary said that it will cost around €700 to replace the cabinet and a further €7 to deal with the smell. The defibrillator is being tested this week. If it needs to be replaced it will cost up to €2,000.

Mr Geary said that he and his fellow first responders were all “fucking gutted” and “shocked” to hear that vandals had targeted the defibrillator.

The chances of someone surviving after suffering a cardiac arrest increase a fair amount if a defibrillator is used to treat them while waiting for medical attention to arrive. Mr Geary says that the voluntary group, which has 2 defibrillators located around the town, has not yet saved the lives of any local people in the last 12 months, but that that wasn’t the point.

“We never thought this would happen. The people of Glanmire are disgusted,” he said, speaking for thousands of people.

There is “great community spirit” in Glanmire and “local people, with three notable exceptions, have been very supportive of the group since it was formed in 2020”, Mr Geary added.

Defibrillator soaked with vandal piss

At the moment Glanmire Community Responder Group has 5 members, down from 8 last month as three members have had their membership suddenly revoked. “They have also been banished from the WhatsApp group”, Mr Geary confirmed, with a disdain not witnessed before by this reporter in any man or beast .

Glanmire Gardai are investigating the incident, anyone who may have information is asked to contact the station on (021) 999.

GLANMIRE TWINNED WITH MOSCOW

In an extraordinary mix-up at the SCI (Sister Cities International) headquarters, Glanmire has been accidentally twinned with the Russian Federation Capital City of Moscow.

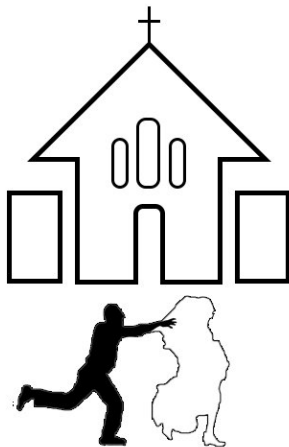

It is unclear exactly how this has occurred, or why Glanmire, which current city status is: not a city, would be included in the City twinning procedure.

But what is clear, is that this is an action that cannot be reversed. A spokesman for the SCI explains, "The Twinning procedure is a solemn act, once announced, it cannot be then altered. It's unfortunate that this has happened, but it is done now and we will all have to make the best of it".

New Beginnings Up Rear Endings

How're Things Mary?

Start the New Year as you mean to go on. I know all that. I really do. But I got drunk, turned on Babestation and ended up with half a conveniently shaped bottle of shampoo up my arse (I was using the shampoo as lubricant and one thing led to my arse), but now, I just don't know Mary. How am I meant to keep this up all year? Gary, 36. Dear Gary, I've always wondered who still watches Babestation. My granddaughter, Mary, she's on there, but I think she'd make more money on OnlyFans. Kisses, Mary xxx

Blue Monday

How're Things Mary?

Well I don't know about you, but I had myself a very "Blue Monday", if you know what I mean? I was working from home and had all these Zoom meetings lined up that I'll be honest, I didn't give a flying flip about, so instead of listening to my boss blather on about "sales not being made" and "we have to let everyone go", I muted them and, get this right, I opened YouTube and put on the music video for Turn Back Time by Cher, you know the one, and I don't mind telling you where my hand went, Mary. Under my desk. Thought your readers would love that. Patrick, 23. Dear Patrick, First Babestation, now you're describing something as "Blue"? How fuckin, old are ye lads? Jesus Christ. Kisses, Mary xxx

Text Messages

You know scissoring? Does that, like, actually work? You know, when they, like, just, sort of, rub against each other? Does that, does that really work? I'm not knocking it, I'm just, I just want to know if it works really. Debrah, 54.

Dear Debrah, Did you audio dictate this message or something? What's going on? M xxx

BOOK OF THE MONTH

"Time Added On" George Hook's autobiography is a chilling stroll through the mind of a former judge of RTE's Celebrity Jigs & Reels. Not one for nuance, Hook's book contains no lowercase letters, which was as bold a choice as his decision to also select a bold font. The contempt Hook has for people who aren't George Hook is palpable throughout this 256 page read. However the final 3 chapters, which forensically detail the perfect line-out, is what really makes this an outstanding piece of literature.
